Provider Spotlight

Julie Silver, PA-C is a licensed and board certified physician assistant who practices general and cosmetic dermatology. She has extensive training and expertise in injectables, such as Botox, Juvederm products and most recently Kybella.

A native of Arizona, Julie attended the University of Arizona and graduated in 1994 with a Bachelor's degree in Anthropology. She worked for the state mental health department for the seriously mentally ill crisis department before attending Midwestern University. Graduating in 2000 with a Master's in Medical Science, she worked in family practice/internal medicine for 4 years. She then found her passion for dermatology and has been working medically and cosmetically in dermatology for over 10 years.

Julie is a member of the American Academy of Physician Assistants and has been a member of the Dermatology Physician Assistants Society since its inception. She has recently been asked to join as a board member. Through her love of the cosmetic aspect of dermatology, Julie has become an advanced injector through special, exclusive training and has, in turn, trained other dermatologists and physicians. She has also mentored and precepted students in the clinic.

When she is not working, Julie loves to spend time with her husband and the children - playing any card game, creating her own "Rock Band", hiking and discovering new restaurants. She also enjoys traveling and the theater.

Psoriasis is a chronic inflammatory disease of the immune system. The most affected areas are skin and joints but it may also affect other regions such as fingernails, toenails, soft tissues of the genitals and the inside of the mouth. Diabetes, cardiovascular disease and depression are among the other health conditions associated with psoriasis and psoriatic arthritis.

Psoriasis can occur in all age groups and primarily affects the scalp, knees, elbows, hands and feet. The most common form of psoriasis, affecting 80-90% of patients with the disease, is plaque psoriasis. It is characterized by patches of raised, reddish skin covered with silvery-white scales. Treatment can include topical medications, traditional systemics, phototherapy or biologic agents.

Our providers at East Valley Dermatology Center can evaluate your treatment options, including new and emerging therapies and help you determine which treatment is best for your condition.
